President Welcome

Ain Shams is an internationally famous university [ASU] located in the Egyptian capital with about 200,000 students in diverse degree programs. Spread in eight different campuses, ASU comprises 16 faculties and 3 institutes; including 6000 international students from over 45 countries.

Located at the heart of Cairo, outstanding achievements in research and teaching, imparting skills to excellent graduates, and a modern service-oriented administration characterize ASU. It is one of the largest institutes of education and research in Egypt.

The main focus in research and teaching at ASU is on engineering and natural sciences. In addition, it offers degree programs in medicine, planning, social sciences, humanities, economics management and more. Apart from the main campus, there are further campuses across Cairo, located in satellite cities to it, in the greater Cairo region, encompassing its potential for future extension.

Fundamental research in the natural science disciplines, medicine, and strongly innovative applied research in engineering and computer science form the scientific backbone of the university. ASU can boast outstanding results in all disciplines, which are supported by its leader staff in research.

Research at ASU is moreover characterized by close cooperation with external research institutions and industry as amply demonstrated by the high volume of external funding. Well-known companies, Innovation Laboratories and industrial partners are actively engaged at ASU.

ASU currently offers various double-degree programs with partner universities in Great Britain, USA.
